HISTORY

Homestead on the Corner began in June 2017 as a storytelling blog. In 2019, Trevor Van Winkle published their first novel, The Gräzland Tales, and began a 10-part anthology series of audio fiction stories and writing lessons under the original podcast, Homestead on the Corner.

In 2020, the spinoff series The Sheridan Tapes premiered, and has completed three seasons. In August 2021, Tales of the Echowood premiered, and has released one season. In December 2022, Homestead on the Corner partnered with Realm Media for distribution.

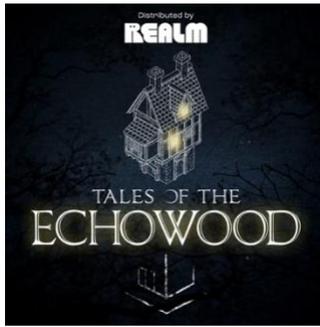

MISSION STATEMENT

The Homestead on the Corner mission is to create high-quality, accessible storytelling, prioritizing stories that focus on justice, equity, diversity, community, and unheard voices. The intent of our platform is to set up creators for success, providing them with opportunities, and giving open access to tools, education, and inspiration for a wide variety of creative endeavors.

LIST OF PROJECTS

In 2018, famed horror writer Anna Sheridan disappeared, leaving behind only a box of mysterious cassette tapes. Detective Sam Bailey is tasked with piecing together what happened to Anna Sheridan from the seemingly impossible encounters she recorded, but as the scattered pieces of the puzzle come together, Bailey discovers that the picture is even stranger – and more dangerous – than it seemed.

When a human traveler wanders through a mysterious doorway, they find themselves on the threshold of a strange inn, lost in another world. Inside, they meet an old sprite named Grael – one part innkeeper, two parts storyteller, and one part deposed trickster god. The sprite uses a series of strange, interconnected tales to teach them about the twisted fairy tale realm they've stumbled into... only to realize that Grael may not be as trustworthy as he seems, and the Echowood more dangerous than they could have imagined.

Your home for high-concept audio dramas and practical fiction writing lessons, Homestead on the Corner is a podcast dedicated to the craft of story.
